

Castaic Lake

FISHING REPORT

WEEK ENDING 02/27/2010

WATER TEMP: Mid 50's to low 60's

LOWER LAKE Trout Plant: 01/12/2010

UPPER LAKE Trout Plant: 01/12/2010

Castaic has woken up from its winter hibernation. Both the upper and lower lakes have been producing bigger fish and bigger quantities this past week. Starting with the upper lake, the stripers have been tearing up the shoreline on the dam and the shoreline around Kong Island. Sardines are still to dominate choice for bait from the shoreline and from boats. Sharron's rest, the Fore Bay Buoy line and Elizabeth Cyn have also bringing out some better sized stripers also being caught off sardines. It is an early bite that seems to die off around 9:00am then picks back up in the afternoon around 3:00pm till closing. The largemouth bite has also been doing extremely well at the upper lake. Drop shotting and Carolina rigging plastics has been working great and for the deeper bass, deep diving crank baits have been pulling up some bigger bass. Steven Allen of Redondo Beach caught a 12.7 pound Lunker out of the ski slalom cove on a DD22 Crank bait. The lower lagoon is no stranger to double digit largemouth and this past week has proven that. Senko's and creature baits have been bringing in the toads all day long in paradise cove and near the spillway. Some trout are still hanging around the launch ramp at the lagoon and they are biting powerbait, small spinners, and super dupers.
