

Castaic Lake

FISHING REPORT

WEEK ENDING 08/14/2010

WATER TEMP: Mid 70's to 80

LOWER LAKE Trout Plant: 01/12/2010

UPPER LAKE Main Ramp 3100 lbs: 05/24/2010

Striper fishing has slowed down a bit but the large mouth are still biting strong. Largies can be found hanging out in about 10 to 30 feet of water. They are really keying in on the night crawlers as well as the plastics. Some jigs are still working to catch those deeper ones but most of them are still shallow and will even bite off of the top. A fly lined fluke is a great set up for the early morning and late evening while a fly linned Senko is the way to go in the afternoon. This goes for both the upper and lower lakes. Now the striper action at the upper lake has been getting slower at the buoy line and Kong Island but anglers are nabbing a few schoolie stripers off of the dam on night crawlers. In the morning in the marina there are a few schools of smaller stripers roaming around and you can hook with a top water bait like a Sammy or a Fluke. There are still lots of catfish reports from every corner of the lake. From the shoreline around the marina to the back of Elizabeth Cyn and the buoy line anglers keep bringing up some nice sized cats. The bait of choice for the cats are anchovies and sardines, night crawlers, and power bait. Unfortunately the pan fish bite at the lagoon has seen better days but you can still locate some down by the fishing pier.
